show them to have taken their part in various fields of activity, one of the last mentioned being Lieut. Harold E. Dugan, who served overseas in the World War.

In Revolutionary times it found Benjamin Dungan, over six feet tall and weighing 200 pounds. A cooper by trade he could turn out 10 flour barrels a day when he was 50 years of age. He is said to have placed 12½ bushels of wheat on his back, after taking them from a wagon, and carried the load up three steps and into his mill.

FLOOD RELIEF DANCE AT ROSENDALE A SUCCESS

The flood relief dance of the Italian-American Democratic Association, Rosendale branch, was a huge success. A happy crowd of about 300 persons danced the evening through to the music of the "Rosendale Musical Clowns."

During the course of the evening an entertainment by local talent was greatly enjoyed. Wilbur Upton and Alfred Bleakly rendered several mountain and old time tunes. Mr. Bleakly sang two Jewish comedy numbers followed by jokes. George Stokes played several numbers on his harmonica. A very clever dance was given by Miss Dorothy Zangar.

Ruby Thorpe, who is now singing with Roger Baer's orchestra, sang three popular songs. She was accompanied on the piano by Les Marks of the Masters Rhythm Orchestra, through the courtesy of Jack Daly.

Miss Gladys Dickenson, a nurse, gave a short talk about the Red Cross.

Alfred Pietri Belli, president, thanked the crowd for its cooperation with him and the committee in making this affair for such a worthy cause a success.

A certified check for $109.90 will be turned over to the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross.

A telephone installer was perched on a pole making wire changes to move a grocer's telephone to a new location. Before the job was completed, a call came through from a housewife who wanted to place an order.

So the lineman jotted down the items. The grocer got his order, the lady got her spinach, and the lineman got the satisfaction of giving a telephone customer a bit of extra service.

Housewives everywhere are learning that they can accomplish in a few minutes over the telephone what otherwise might take hours. They have more time to themselves by following this maxim: "Reach for the telephone before you reach for your hat." New York Telephone Company.

The smart new utility car known as the Studebaker Corporation is destined to prove a boon to a large group of people who find the conventional passenger cars unsatisfactory for "station wagon" or light delivery service. Built on the same chassis as the popular Studebaker sedan, this smartly lined coupe affords complete passenger car comfort while accommodating eight passengers and luggage. Patterned to serve as an enclosed utility vehicle for large estates, resort owners, farmers, suburban residents and light delivery users, the suburban car can be obtained with either curtain or glass enclosure. Like the Studebaker coupe, it is a two-door vehicle. Removal of the rear seat converts it into a spacious enclosed utility vehicle. Marshall type cushions and a sturdy tail gate are available for luggage-carrying purposes. Two of the many features contributing to the comfort, utility and convenience of the Studebaker suburban car.

T. H. Keating, for the past three years Chevrolet midwest regional manager with headquarters in St. Louis, has been named to fill one of the new assistant sales manager positions created by W. E. Holley, vice president and general sales manager of Chevrolet. Mr. Keating and W. E. Holley, formerly director of mass selling in a central office, will have charge of an entirely new national campaign of operation designed to benefit the public by providing better values in used cars and better service in the used car departments throughout the dealer organization. Under the new men's direction—Mr. Keating in the eastern half of the United States and Mr. Holley in the western half—there will be built up a merchandising organization paralleling the closely coordinated set-up which already exists in the new car end of the business, and which has carried the company to new sales records month after month and year after year.

Adding substantial weight to predictions that Cadillac-LaSalle would score the outstanding sales gains of the automobile industry this year, the volume of orders for the 1937 series passed total shipments for all of the 1936 models. Figures announced by General Manager Nicholas Dreyfuss disclosed shipments of the current models to date, together with unfilled dealer orders on hand, have just crossed the 26,000 mark. The factory shipped 25,805 of the 1936 series. "This unusual record is all the more impressive in view of the fact that January retail sales in Cadillac-LaSalle history," said Mr. Dreyfuss, "despite the interruption in manufacturing and a consequent reduction in new car stocks of more than 40 per cent, our dealers delivered 2,991 cars. This volume was 45 per cent above the previous January peak, set in 1928."

With the spring selling season in immediate prospect, the Buick division of General Motors Sales Corporation has launched an extensive campaign of advertising and sales promotion which will carry on through the next four months, according to Thomas H. Corpe, director of those departments. "A heavy volume of advertising is contemplated the campaign already having started with insertions in newspapers throughout the country during the past week," Mr. Corpe said. "The advertising campaign will grow in intensity reaching its maximum power during May in the peak of the spring selling season. Besides newspapers which will carry more than 60 per cent of the volume, comprehensive use will be made of national, class and mass magazines as well as trade publications. Outdoor media also will be used extensively with plans now underway for 12,000 in-division outdoor board postings covering approximately 2,000 cities. The 1937 slogan, 'It's Buick Again', will be featured."

Reports Progress In Youth Groups

Jithaca, March 3—Almost a year's work with rural youth groups, heretofore reached only in a limited way, is beginning to show results in the four "tryout" counties of Cortland, Madison, Monroe, and Oswego, according to Mrs. Martha H. Eddy, extension specialist, New York State College of Home Economics.

The work was started last spring with the extension services of the colleges of agriculture and home economics cooperating with the state department of education. Groups have been organized in 14 communities among young persons out of school, on farms, and in villages. They are not necessarily unemployed, but they are unmarried and have not yet established their own homes and many of them have not chosen a life's work. Ages range from 18 to 25, too mature for 4-H clubs and too young for farm and home bureau associations. Hence the need for some educational work for this "in-between" group. Part of the National Youth Administration, and no special funds are available.

In almost every community, says Mrs. Eddy, the young men and women decided to hold joint education and social meetings once each month and a separate meeting for studies of particular subjects, the range of which is large. Programs are planned entirely by the members, based on their interests and needs. As part of the home bureau program in Erie, Ulster and Wyoming counties, one or more groups of older young women have been formed and a program developed, with the aid of home demonstration agents and homemaking teachers.

HARMONICA BAND WILL ENTERTAIN ASSEMBLIES

The high school "Ginger Snaps" have been practicing hard, so they will be able to present a good showing of their club, when they appear on the high school stage for the first time this year. It is expected that the band will include an average of 11 members. Mr. Anderson, director of the A. A. circus, attended the practice of the band last Thursday. He spoke favorably of using the band in the circus. Dan Hicks, leader of the harmonica band, requests that all members of the band make arrangements with their roll call teachers so they will not have to report for the 8:40 roll call, but go directly to the auditorium Thursday morning, March 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stanley of Elkhart, Ind., were guests of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Whitaker, on Sunday, February 21.

Palatial River Steamers May Bid For Trade Again

By TOM HOHNER

St. Louis (AP)—"Steamboat a-comin'!"

"Steamboat 'round the bend!" These joyful shouts, which once announced the arrival in sleepy Mississippi river villages of the picturesque stern and side wheelers, may soon herald the return of river craft to glory—and profits.

"No longer an idle dream," says Captain Donald T. Wright, "but an imminent reality is the return of passenger boats to the Mississippi and the Ohio."

Wright, who is editor of "The Waterways Journal," says river men report a steadily increasing demand for passenger accommodations. Plans for luxurious "tourist steamers" already are under way and groups of capitalists are considering proposals to build them.

(See Excursion Lines)

Wright says barge lines are carrying more freight today than in the highest period of river traffic.

For proof of the renewed interest in passenger travel, he cites the successful seasons of an excursion boat operating out of St. Louis and of another in service between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

Romance still lives on the river. Wright maintains "The world is hungry for the gaiety and color explained by the river boat period."

River Alteration May Aid

He does not envision an immediate boom but declares that with the completion of the nine-foot channel from New Orleans to Minneapolis, and the elimination by government-construction

ed dams and locks of high and low extremes on the river, passenger trade may be expected to increase to a par with freight traffic.

Passenger business which has dropped to almost nothing began its decline in the late 20's with the advance of the railroads into the west.

The decrease was accelerated by operation difficulties. Before government engineers closed Old Man River in his bed, unexpected channel shifts made steamboating hazardous work. wrecks were numerous and the resulting financial losses bankrupted many lines.

Conference of Jewish Youths

The conference of Jewish Youth Organizations of Ulster, Sullivan, Orange and adjoining counties, sponsored by the Jewish Agricultural Society, was held on Sunday afternoon at the Talmud Torah Building, Ellenville.

Herman J. Levine, the Society's branch manager, chairman of the meeting, dwelt on the fact that country life in America is improving, the outlook is becoming wider sympathies are deepening and satisfactions increasing. He deplored the fact, however, that selfishness, petty bickerings and economic conditions often prevented some from associating and trying to please others. The purpose of the movement to form a federation of associations was to encourage a higher standard of living, to stimulate social, educational and cultural activities, and place such within reach of all who desire them. He urged those present to submit their respective associations to examination, so that the gathering could be certain the factors which make for success and attempt to overcome the difficulties which lead to failure.

The meeting was the first of its kind to be held in this section of the country. About 75 were present and included editors, teachers, school board officials, leaders in boy and girl scouting, 4-H club work, community centers and representatives of the grange, young folks leagues, young men's social clubs and of youth alliances.

Following discussions the Inter-County Jewish Youth Association was formed for the purpose of assisting the constituent associations to enjoy a broader program of educational, social and cultural activities. Among the speakers were Benjamin C. Stone, editor of the Jewish Farmer, and Benjamin Miller, extension agent of the Jewish Agricultural Society.

The Advisory Committee chosen were the following: Joseph Block, Kingston; Mrs. Raphael Klein, Ulster Park; Pearl Crystal Accord, Sol Panich, Briggs Street, Jack Bagleibter, Ellenville; Henry Kramer, Ulster Heights; Irving Blum, Cape Road; Estel Lefkowitz and Florence Patt, Spring Glen; Hyman Levine and Jack Grantz, Jeffersonville; Paul Cooper and Beatrice Reiter, Upper Briggs Street; Lawrence Levine, Ellenville; Rabbi Maurice Bloom, Newburgh; Rabbi A. Simon, Middletown; Milton Levine, Liberty; Lazarus Levine, Hurleyville; the Rev. J. Greenstein, Tinseltown; Morris Ratner, Liberty; Isadore Brustein, Swan Lake; Rosalind Kempler, Irving Berkwitz and Norman Masselle, Newburgh.

The committee is to hold its next meeting on Sunday, March 14, at Ellenville.

Leo Siskler with a force of 25 men were busy today removing all of the fixtures and display cases in the R. & G. Gorman store, and loading them into 10 freight cars for shipment by rail to a large department store in Newbern, N. C., which had purchased them. The freight charge is $2,500.

The tube conveyor system used in conveying the money paid to the clerk at the counters to the cashier's office is also being dismantled. It has been purchased by the Herman Department Store in Danville, Va. and will be shipped there by rail.

The WORLD of STAMPS

By Quinton James

Although only half a square mile in area, Vatican City since 1929 an independent state has its own postage stamps.

In that time it has issued quite a number of interesting designs, two of which concentrated upon the portrait of Pope Pius XI. The most recent was the horizontal rectangular format in the issue of 1933.

On four of the higher values from 1 to 2.75 lire the head of the Pope is placed in a central medallion printed in black and surrounded by a highly decorative frame in varying colors.

Previously the Pope appeared on the first issue of 1929 again on the higher values 80 centesimi to 10 lire. These stamps were smaller than the later issue about the size of a U. S. 2-cent. The 1933 stamps were approximately the measurement of a U. S. special delivery.

In addition the Pope's portrait also was used on the two values of the first special deliveries of 1929, it being placed to the left with the inscription taking up the other half of the stamp. When a new special delivery issue appeared in 1933 it displayed an aerial view of Vatican City.

Vatican Stamps Total 83. As the total of all types of Vatican stamps issued so far is 83 it is a rather easy country to collect. Besides, none has a catalog value above $2.70 used or unused.

The regular postal issues now total 54. There are four special deliveries as well as four semi-postals, the Holy year issue of 1933. In addition the overprint was used in 1931 to create 15 parcel posts and 10 postage dues.

The latest catalogued Vatican set appeared last year to commemorate the Catholic press conference. Made up to eight values it had designs depicting doves and a bell, an allegory of the church and the Bible, a portrait of St. John of Bosco and another of St. Francis of Sales.

This was the second commemorative issue. The previous one honored the International Eucharistic Congress in Rome in 1934.

Among some of the additional designs which have been employed in the various issues are other views from Vatican City, including the Vatican gardens and a general view of St. Peter's.

France Honors a Dramatist

France's list of commemorative stamps is being augmented again. This time the tribute is paid to Pierre Corneille (1606-1684), the French dramatist and poet.

The occasion is the 100th anniversary of the production of "Le Cid," Corneille's great drama based on the legendary hero of Spain. The stamp 75 centime face value bears a large portrait of Corneille. Masks books pen and ink—symbols of his contribution to literature and the theatre—also are part of the design. "Le Cid" had a triumphant success. It roused a storm of controversy among French writers of that period, drew the jealousy of Richelieu and the Academy and started a pamphlet war. But the public liked "Le Cid." It is considered the most "epoch-making" play in French literature.

Finnish Rate Changes

A change in the rates on foreign letters has caused Finland to make some stamp shifts. The increase was from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 marks. So, a new 1 1/2 mark denomination has been added. It is in deep blue of the type of 1930 bearing the coat of arms. At the same time the color of the 2 mark was changed from deep violet to scarlet.

REALLY ROUND THE WORLD

When Amelia Earhart starts her projected flight around the world, she proposes to make a real job of it. The world, as we all learned when studying geography in school, is 25,000 miles around, and she is going to fly the whole distance. To make that fact clear, she will do it at the equator, the one band where the circumference is definitely indicated on all maps. Anyone who has missed the point has only to look at a geographical globe to make the matter clear. Nearly all of the flights "around the world" so far have been made pretty far north, averaging about half way between the equator and the North Pole.

An encirclement starting in the latitude of the northern United States, crossing the Pacific to Japan and thence continuing through Siberia, Russia, western Europe and the north Atlantic, would hardly fly more than 15,000 miles if it kept anywhere near a straight east-to-west line. By following a route through northern Canada and northern Siberia, the distance could be reduced to a few thousand miles. That would no more be flying around the earth than if the aviator flew a circle of the same diameter in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean. If it were, an explorer might say he had walked "around the world" by going to the North Pole, establishing that point and then walking around it in a circle one mile in diameter.

HEILING

Future historians may mention, along with the curious signs of these times, the imprisonment for "a gross misdemeanor" of a citizen of Cologne who answered the salute "Heil Hitler!" with "Heil London!" He was promptly arrested and sentenced by the local police court and the sentence has been upheld by the court of appeals. It was rude, no doubt, and annoying to loyal Germans, to do that sort of thing in a cafe. As the court held, it "might have led to a disturbance of the public peace." But the interesting fact historically, perhaps, is the language of the decision: "The greeting 'Heil Hitler!' is for the overwhelming majority of the German people not only an expression of deep veneration for the Fuehrer's person, but is also an external symbol of restored honor and of the German people's awakened national consciousness." Restored honor and awakened patriotism must be respected, but expressing it in this particular form still seems curious to most people outside of Germany. Americans, while viewing the present offense with mild amusement, may really sympathize with a certain Englishman when he first ran up against this odd practice in Berlin. Giving a telephone call, he was greeted by the exchange girl with "Heil Hitler!" And what number do you wish? He replied: "God save the King! And if Herr Hitler doesn't mind, I would like number so-and-so."

LATIN IN THE SCHOOLS

Latin study got another kicking around at the convention of the National Education Association in New Orleans. Orville C. Pratt, the president, told school superintendents that "Latin as taught today can only be justified as mental discipline" and "as such is on a par with the memorization of nonsense syllables." Many middle-aged parents of children now in school might reply that if this is true, the teaching must be pretty bad. And merely as mental discipline, they might say, Latin is in modern languages as the multiplication table is in mathematics. A common complaint nowadays is that the boys and girls emerging from high school don't seem to know any more. Those who studied Latin in the old days, or who study it now, might say that the old-fashioned Latin of the past helped them to know more. In English, however, the average now is well below three percent.

decisions that its grammar is almost invisible. In Latin the grammatical relations are always visible, and so the student learns grammatical principles—which are the principles of logical thought and speech. Latin, too, is supposed to be a pretty good remedy for sloppy use of English words and phrases. Anyone who has really studied Latin, isn't likely to make such blunders as "this data", "irregardless", "inter" for "imply", "disassociate" for "disassociate", "compare to" for "compare with", and scores of other errors now in common use.

WEATHER VIOLENCE

Take it from the government Weather Bureau, January, 1937, was the hottest, coldest, wettest and driest January ever noted in this country. It broke more records than were ever broken in a similar period in the history of the United States. While half the normal rainfall for the whole year brought terrible floods to the Ohio River Valley, continued droughts brought suffering and dust storms to the western plains. Florida fruit crops suffered from excessive January warmth, and California fruit crops from abnormal frost. Nothing can be done about it. Hardly anyone was pleased except householders in the eastern states who enjoyed having to shovel less coal and less snow than their usual January quotas, and whose fuel bills were pleasantly down from January, 1936. Violence seems to be the keynote of contemporary weather. Scientists connect it with the sun spots. Violence seems to be the keynote, also, of contemporary statesmanship. We feared the whole human race was going crazy, but maybe it's just suffering sun spot trouble, too.

CAUSE OF DYSPEPSIA

Most of us are apt to think that if any X-ray has been taken of the stomach and there is no cancer or ulcer present, there can't be much wrong with the stomach. Our stomach and intestinal specialists—gastro-enterologists—usually classify X-ray stomach examination results as either positive—showing cancer or ulcer, or negative—showing neither cancer nor ulcer. However, the fact that the X-ray film reveals no cancer or ulcer does not mean that there is no trouble in the stomach because at the Mayo Clinic, Dr. Geo. B. Eusterman tells us in the Journal of the American Medical Association only about one-fifth of the cases of chronic dyspepsia are due to cancer or ulcer.

It is cheering information then to know that despite the great number of cases of chronic dyspepsia that four out of five are neither cancer nor ulcer. Dr. Eusterman further states, "Stomach disturbances due to disease of the abdominal organs (not to disease of the stomach itself). In my opinion, exceed in importance the upset or nervous stomach so frequently seen." These cases, due to trouble or disturbance of the other abdominal organs make up from one-third to two-fifths of all cases, whereas the number of cases of neurosis (or nervous stomach) make up about one-fourth of the total. Now as chronic indigestion or dyspepsia is so common it is interesting to know that only about 20 in every 100 of these cases are really due to ulcer or cancer; about 35 to 40 are due to trouble in the other organs in the abdomen; about 25 are due to neurosis (emotional disturbances or upsets); and about 15 to 20 are due to disturbances in organs even farther away, that is in lungs, kidneys, and other organs. Naturally this means that if the X-ray shows no organic trouble of the stomach itself, the physician, by questioning, further examination and use of laboratory methods, will try first to find if nearby organs—particularly the liver—are at fault, and then later look to organs still farther away.

If no trouble is found anywhere, then even further questioning may bring out the fact that the patient, perhaps without realizing it, is undergoing some emotional disturbance. In fact the emotional disturbance may be due to fear that cancer, ulcer, or other serious condition is present.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: It was planned as an announcement party for Eve Mannerfeld and Denny Carter. Denny Carter, a little man, with a Southern Star Line with which he had been connected, had landed a publicity job. He had landed the lower dream of a globe-circling honeymoon. Eve Mannerfeld explains to sympathetic Marilyn Featherstone that she has resigned her good job to spend the summer in her aunt's old Connecticut house which has just lost its tenant.

Chapter Six Eve Faces Her Future

EVE was not a good advertiser, or she would have made more capital of the fine plain old Georgian stone house built by Mannerfelds of gentility and fortune in the late seventeenth century when Connecticut towns along the Housatonic were more important and thickly populated. Mannerfelds had managed to keep it from decadence and slipshodness till now, as well. She only said, "It isn't exactly a farmhouse, though we still have an orchard and a meadow."

Eve began to assemble stray dishes and dirty ashtrays. "Darling, is what Dill said true?"

Judge, still close behind Eve and George, stood up. "I'll come," he said soberly. "That is, if I won't be a burden."

He was so in earnest that he scarcely minded the laughter. Eve put her arm around his reluctant shoulders and bent down and whispered that she knew he would be a great help. His parents should bring him out the minute she was settled.

For some reason he began to cry, quietly but steadily. Eve glanced at the backs above them: Ellen's brown satin head and black satin shoulders; Milla's George's evening coat. She touched Ellen, who said quietly to George: "The boy's excited; too many late nights. Can you reach a glass of water without stirring things up?"

George did. He knelt down by Eve on the floor with the child on her lap. "Here, old man, drink this slowly," he said, taking charge. Eve liked him, for the first time. "Where's his mother?"

Eve indicated Marilyn, who had slipped away, leaning against the lamp. "I see," George said, and went on talking in an even, soothing manner to Judge.

"The Featherstones are the ones who ought to go to the country," Ellen said, sitting down with Eve again. Milla had reclaimed George. "Can you see them?" Eve said, laughing. "Judge was reared in a clothes-basket on a fire escape—be's the perfect city child."

Ellen shook her head and said, "It's wrong." She was very religious, a girl who would get up after a late night and go to early church, who examined her conscience, who said little and did much. She went on speaking. "Eve—wouldn't you like to come in with me till you can turn around? You haven't much time before your lease is up."

"You angel! No, indeed. I've time to move." "To be sure, I suppose," said Ellen sternly. "The next thing will be matrimony, then."

Eve looked startled. She remembered that after all Denny still had his old job—thank goodness! "Supper for The Wolves" I THINK I'd better go out to the country—indeed, I have to," she said. "I have to get the house in order for rent."

TALKS TO PARENTS

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

AT about two most children have reached the stage of development when they are best pleased by sets of things of the same kind. There seems to be something about uniformity which appeals to them. The woman who likes piles of linen, neat rows of flat silver, stacks of identical plates, the man who rejoices in a set of chairs, the book collector who revels in complete editions, should understand the child's delight in many blocks, dozens of spoons, a troop of miniature animals or a whole nest of boxes.

Wise, guided, the collector's urge may become an important social asset to the adult. The real collector is seldom a hermit. He must meet people and make contacts if he is to add to his collection. Furthermore, hobbies are humanizing, since every rider of a hobby feels the need to discuss and compare his mount with those of others.

The boy who rejoices in collections, however absurd they may be, will in a few years be the boy who is trading stamps, or the young girl who is exhibiting her linen chest to her friends.

Out of this same root, however, may grow the money-grubber and the miser. He is not out-going, and fails in human sympathy. Somewhere in his youth the collector's instinct has been warped and turned into the wrong channels. Perhaps it was not given a natural outlet, perhaps too much emphasis was laid on collecting money, and too little on the mere joy of collecting.

Only parents who understand and have themselves felt the need to collect with no material purpose in view, can guide the child adequately in the road which will give him and those about him most joy.

Sundown Stories

In The Cellar

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"NEVER before have we paid so little attention to the bears when they've come forth from their winter's sleep. We never even asked them how they had slept," Willy said.

"Of course it doesn't happen every day in the week or year, or years," cawed Christopher, "that we have so many people here, and above all manage to have a son find his father and a father find his son."

"No, sure the bears understood," said Willy Nilly. "I'd hate to think their feelings were hurt. We told them what had happened, and we were so excited ourselves that maybe they didn't understand."

"Before I do anything else, I must look for them. We must tell them how glad we are to see them again and how much we've missed them during the winter."

"I'll run up to their cave and see if they're in it," barked Rip. "I'll take a short flight and see if they're gone on an eating-walk," said Christopher.

"Jelly Bear! Honey Bear! Jupiter! Blacky and Chubby! Where are you?" called Willy Nilly. "And before Christopher had got started, and before Rip had run up to the cave there were some deep, muffled, growling answers."

"Here we are, here we are, growl, growl, gruff, gruff." "Where? I can't make out from your voices," said Willy Nilly. "In the cellar," came the reply. "I might have known!" exclaimed Willy Nilly. "I didn't lock the cellar door when I went for the important newspaper which led to the solving of the mystery."

"Oh dear, oh dear, oh dear! But then I did say I wanted to welcome them!" "Tomorrow—'Dear Old Welcome' WOODSTOCK

A Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — You have to skip the news, sport and society pages and delve into the financial columns to discover the full part played by Mariner S. Eccles in shaping the government's financial policy. This slim-lined banker came into the New Deal picture as governor of the Federal Reserve board. He had ideas for taking some of the sting out of depressions, present and future, while not pretending a cure.

It was summarized in the term "budget financing." The scheme, stripped of many ramifications, was to let the budget yaw out of balance in depressions while federal spending helped protect the unfortunate. Interest rates should be driven down to invite legitimate investment at the earliest possible moment.

On the upswing, the budget should be drawn to a balance and enough picked off by taxes both to help brake the boom and to offset the excess of spending during the depression.

During recovery and prosperity periods, capital investments can be made profitably even at high interest rates, but when the recession comes, these high rate investments are the first to let go. If the investments happen to be in production enterprises such as manufacturing, the closing down hurts extremely. The closing down reduces employment, buying power, and generally reduces demand so other industries are hurt and the depression course is accelerated.

Eccles has friends aplenty for his policy—and foes aplenty. But why not let interest rates rise and act as a check on the boom in the good old way? Mr. Eccles has not publicly answered that one, for to do so would be in effect to recognize that the future will see another depression, great or small. But there is an answer and it may in time turn out to be something akin to Mr. Eccles' answer. Briefly it is this:

Interest Fight HE TOLD the house banking committee, however, that he believes it unnecessary to reverse the trend of the interest rate and push it up to help check any excessive recovery movement. And on that position he is in one of the most controversial seas of government economics.

He conceded that insurance companies and other "institutional investors" were complaining that the government policy of financing at low interest rates (the treasury average now is well below three percent) was dangerous. The possibility that interest on long-term securities, such as bonds, ultimately will prove so unattractive that investment institutions will dump some of their bonds and put the money into the more speculative stock market.

The effect of that, if continued unchecked, might be to skyrocket the stock market and at the same time so damage the bond market that more and more institutional investors would be crowded out of the stock market—an upward spiral that takes the path of people who remember 1928 and 1929.

But, says Eccles, it is to the house committee, that is in part the reason for looking up excess bank reserves by increasing reserve requirements $1,500,000,000 a while back. Simply it is to prevent liquidation of an excessive number of long-term investments the money from which might drift into the stock market.

The Answer BUT why not let interest rates rise and act as a check on the boom in the good old way? Mr. Eccles has not publicly answered that one, for to do so would be in effect to recognize that the future will see another depression, great or small. But there is an answer and it may in time turn out to be something akin to Mr. Eccles' answer. Briefly it is this:

You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, weak and the world looks punk. Laxatives are only makeshifts. A more natural movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel 'up and up'. Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. ## Official Visit To Clinton Chapter

Members of the Eastern Star from all parts of the Greene-Lister District and visitors from other parts of the state attended the meeting of Clinton Chapter on Friday evening, February 26. The occasion was the official visit of R. W. Florence R. Hoagland, District Deputy Grand Matron of the Greene-Lister District, who was accompanied by R. W. Thomas Washington, Assistant Grand Lecturer of the district. Following the opening ceremonies of the chapter, the worthy matron, Mrs. George B. Styles, and the associate conductress, Miss Elizabeth Schwenk, were directed to escort the guests to the ante room. The present and past grand officers, present and past worthy matrons and worthy patrons of the Clinton Chapter were asked to retire and act as an escort to the district deputy and assistant grand lecturer as they re-entered the room.

Mrs. Gladys Muller, a past Worthy Matron of the chapter sang a beautiful welcome song to the district deputy grand matron. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Helen Weekes, acting pianist. R. W. Mary J. Howard acting as grand conductor escorted and introduced the district deputy grand matron paying a fitting tribute to the splendid service Mrs. Hoagland has given the order in the past. Miss Howard also expressed her willingness to co-operate in any way to assist in carrying out the deputy's wishes for the year and bespoke for the district under its present leadership the richest and fullest year it has yet enjoyed.

Right Worthy Brother Cyrus T. Carle, a past assistant grand lecturer of the district had the honor of escorting and introducing the assistant grand lecturer. This Mr. Carle did in a few but very appropriate words. The worthy matron had an unusual, quaint and beautiful welcome for the district deputy grand matron with brief but well chosen words. Worthy Brother George B. Styles, the worthy patron, extended the greetings of the chapter to the assistant grand lecturer. The worthy matron instructed the guests to proceed to the East under their present escort where they were received and courtesies of the East were extended to them. The worthy matron presented the gavel of Clinton Chapter to the district deputy who upon receiving it gave her address of the evening.

Mrs. Hoagland gave an interesting report on the grand matron's project of the year and spoke of the members' responsibility to their sisters at the home. She also expressed her appreciation of the friendliness shown her from the time she entered the chapter room and for all the courtesies extended. This very inspiring and instructive address received a hearty applause from those present. The splendid message of the assistant grand lecturer was received with equal interest. He urged the members support for the grand matron's project of the year and expressed his appreciation for the courtesies shown. He brought a bit of humor into his address which was enjoyed by all.

Courtesies of the East were extended to all entitled to receive them by the district deputy grand matron. The chapter was called to recreation and little Miss Beverly Bonestell entertained with singing and dancing. Beverly is a charming and talented young lady. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Ottilia Nicolson.

A beautiful degree entitled "The Heart of the Snowball" was given by the floral officers of Clinton Chapter. The worthy matron escorted the honored guests to the center of the floor and the officers expressed sentiments of cheer and good will. A paraphrased song to the tune of "Among My Souvenirs" was rendered by the floral staff in honor of the district deputy grand matron, who was presented with a beautiful bouquet. Miss Nathalie Hobush, past matron of the chapter, presented a striking picture as she entered the room dressed in a white snow suit with matching accessories, drawing a sled covered with cotton to represent snow. On the sled was a pile of snowballs. Miss Vivian Kellenberger, the associate matron, selected two snow balls and in a very gracious manner presented one to each of the guests. The heart of the snowball contained their gift from the chapter. Both guests responded thanking the chapter for their gifts and expressed their delight with the beautiful degree. Worthy Gladys Muller sang "Walk in the Winter Wonderland" at the beginning of the degree and "Taps" at the close. Her sweet singing added very much to the beauty of the ceremony.

Mrs. Thomas Washington, wife of the assistant grand lecturer, and Mrs. George B. Styles, wife of the worthy patron of Clinton Chapter, were escorted to the East and introduced by the worthy matron. They were accorded the public sign of admiration. best wishes to the district leaders. Mrs. Mary C. Smith also spoke of the work of the Triangle of the Daughters of the Eastern Star and asked for the support of the Eastern Star members whose parent body sponsor the younger organization.

The worthy matron announced that past matrons and patrons' night would be observed at the next meeting. R. W. Brother Joseph Frankel will be the speaker on that occasion.

Mrs. Laura Winters was chairman of the refreshment and program committee for this meeting. Miss Elizabeth Schwenk, who is to be the chairman for the month of March, announced the committee for the next meeting.

Following the closing ceremonies, refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. Thus brought to a close a most interesting meeting of the chapter.

Preceding the meeting over 70 members of the Eastern Star attended a banquet given by Clinton Chapter in honor of R. W. Florence R. Hoagland and R. W. Thomas Washington at the Stuyvesant Hotel. The tables were beautifully decorated for the occasion with flowers, name cards and favors. The delicious food was served under the able direction of Mr. Ashton and his efficient corps of assistants. Miss Vivian Kellenberger, chairman of the banquet committee, was responsible for the success of this part of the evening's pleasure which was so thoroughly enjoyed by all.

WELL-PLANNED GARDEN ADDS TO THE VALUE OF YOUR PROPERTY

What a delightful retreat! A low, trailing over boundary fence makes a rock garden border makes an outdoor living-room of this very orderly porch.

This charming garden is stocked with inexpensive plants that practically take care of themselves—hand-some dwarf iris, lavender, clematis, phlox, sedum, which make a rich, mat-like growth.

Well-planned planting like this will bring joy until the snow flies and add value to your property.

For little cost and effort you can have a pleasant outdoor living-room no matter how large or small sunny or shady your plot.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, March 3 (AP)—Stocks swept into another upward drive today that carried selected issues up 1 to around 7 points to new recovery peaks.

Steel pointed the way from the outset following announcement the U. S. Steel Corp. had joined other producers in signing an agreement for higher wages and shorter hours, thus apparently obviating for the time being threats of a strike in this industry.

Heavy buying orders swamped the ticker tape at the opening, but the pace slowed later as profit selling reduced extreme gains. Volume expanded again at noon when prices touched top levels. Leaders were not far under their best near the final period, although trading activity lessened. Transfers were in the neighborhood of 3,000,000 shares.

U. S. Steel led with a starting block of 10,000 shares, up nearly 2 points. It later dropped back, then picked up fresh momentum for a gain of nearly 4. Brokers reported heavy losses were taken by shorts in this issue.

Not far behind "big steel" was Bethlehem, which crossed the 101 mark easily. Youngstown Sheet & Tube was up 7 at the beginning but, along with some of the leaders, it retreated moderately in subsequent proceedings.

Well out in front during the greater part of the session were Gulf States Steel, Sloss-Sheffield, Ludlum, Republic, Crucible, American Rolling Mill and National Steel.

Following with upturns of as much as 2 points were such rails as N. Y. Central, Illinois Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Delaware & Hudson.

Utilities failed to do much either way.

More Wage Boosts And Hour Cuts in The Steel Industry

It is announced that present indications are that the auto output this month will exceed last year by 30 per cent, to a total of 575,000 to 600,000 units. This is barring interruptions in the form of new strikes, etc. There were further announcements yesterday of wage boosts and hour cuts in the steel industry. It is estimated that the new rates will cost the industry as a whole around $150,000,000 a year. Meanwhile steel shares continued strong; rails and utilities were up, the former to a new 1937 high.

Silvery pig iron, used by the auto trade, was advanced $2 a ton in the east, for March only. Foreign copper was higher and the price of export copper here jumped to 16.275 cents a pound. Zinc sold at 6.8 to 7 cents a pound. Platinum dropped $5 to $58 an ounce.

Ohio Public Service will install a $5,000,000 generator at Lorain, Ohio. Productions of Westinghouse Electric's plant at Lima, Ohio, will be doubled by March 15. ## No Additions Made To Day Calendar, Black Case Heard

There were no additions to the day calendar in Supreme Court this morning and No. 18, Elizabeth Albright, as administratrix, etc., of Augustus Albright, against Sidney Black was moved for trial. H. H. Flemming appeared for plaintiff and A. J. Cook for the defendant.

Plaintiff seeks to recover damages for the death of her husband, who was struck by a truck operated by Black last July 25 at the Rondout creek bridge entrance on Abeel street. Mr. Albright was walking from his home toward Broadway over Abeel street when the truck coming off the bridge struck him. He died later in the hospital. The plaintiff claims deceased was walking across the intersection with the green lights and the defendant contends that the light was green for his truck as he came off the bridge and that Mr. Albright stepped in front of the truck despite the efforts of a companion to grasp his arm.

The action was once before tried and was sent back for retrial. On the previous trial last December the jury returned a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $1,000.

Thursday Last Day To Enroll for Study In Social Course

The last opportunity any teacher will have to enroll in the New York University class in Social Studies for this term will be on Thursday evening, March 4, at 7 o'clock in the Kingston High School. When interviewed as to the value of the first term of this course on the "Theory of the Social Studies Curriculum," students commented as follows:

"The course is very interesting and very helpful, especially for the grade school teacher." "Has helped me immensely in my teaching." "Very beneficial. Has made our work more interesting." "Practical. I find it valuable for Social Studies and general teaching problems."

Many teachers fail to take advantage of these opportunities to keep up to the times in educational work and this retards the educational advancement of our schools. As in every other profession, those concerned must advance with the demands of the times, announced sponsors of teachers extension project throughout the country.

When interviewed, Superintendent Van Ingen of the Kingston schools issued the following statement in endorsement of the course starting in "Social Studies Methods":

Extension courses are given again this term under the auspices of New York University.

On Thursday evenings at the high school at 7 o'clock an interesting and valuable course is presented by a regular university professor, Dr. Gill, and two points of college credit are allowed.

This course is in line with the new educational trends of social studies. It is particularly adapted to teachers or others interested in social problems.

Registration should be made tomorrow, March 4.

Supt. of Schools.

Peck Show Cause Order Heard Today

An order to show cause why an order granted some time ago by County Judge Frederick G. Traver appointing Mrs. Laura H. Peck Young a committee of the person of her son, Theodore Peck, 3rd, should not be set aside, was argued this morning at special term before Judge Traver.

In January an application was made by Mrs. Laura H. Peck Young for appointment of a commission of the person for her son whom she alleged was unable to manage himself. After a trial a jury found the young man was incompetent and an order appointing Mrs. Young as a committee of the person was consequently signed by Judge Traver.

Following this the wife of Theodore Peck, 3rd, secured an order to show cause why the appointment of Mrs. Young, mother of Peck as a committee should not be set aside. This order was returnable this morning.

Col. Lewis Landes of New York, attorney for Mrs. Peck in an action for separation pending in New York and for alimony and counsel fees, appeared for Mrs. Peck and Mr. LeVan Haver appeared for Mrs. Young, mother of Peck.

Mr. Landes submitted additional affidavits seeking to vacate the procedure on the grounds of lack of jurisdiction. This was opposed by Mr. Haver and Judge Traver declined to accept the affidavits on the theory they brought in new grounds. The matter was then adjourned until March 12 at 11 o'clock and Mr. Haver is to submit answering affidavits at that time. At the adjourned date Mr. Landes will bring on his motion to vacate on the grounds sought today.

Oswego's Standard Time

Oswego, N. Y., March 3 (AP)—The railroad and agricultural center will stick to standard time this summer. By a vote of 8 to 9, the Oswego Council last night defeated a proposition offered by Mayor Frank H. Marx that the city adopt daylight saving time. Last year the mayor called the vote establishing daylight saving when the council was deadlocked at 3 to 2.

Tributes Paid to Sergeant Lockhart

Among those who express themselves as feeling most keenly their loss in the death of Sergeant Lockhart is Sheriff Abram F. Molyneux, who knew him as a friend and also had been connected with him officially in many cases. The sheriff said today:

"In the death of Sergeant Lockhart I feel that I have lost a good friend, but even more than that I feel that the sheriff's office and the force of law enforcement in Ulster county have suffered a heavy blow."

"In his capacity as a trooper, Sergeant Lockhart always was ready to answer any call I ever made upon him, whether for work in his own particular territory or elsewhere. More than that, he always answered cheerfully, without complaint, no matter how long the hours he might be called upon to put in, or how difficult the task."

He was one of the most conscientious officers I have ever known. His heart was in his work and he never spared himself in the line of duty."

"He was as capable as he was hard-working and conscientious. Seldom, if ever, have I known him to be far out of the way in doing a case. His judgment as to the proper procedure to be followed in matters of investigation was sound and his advice and suggestions always were worth having."

"I shall miss 'Johnny' Lockhart."

County Judge Frederick G. Traver: "I have known Sergeant John Lockhart ever since he came to Ulster county and worked with him for many years while I was district attorney of the county. I have always considered him one of the best troopers ever to work in Ulster county and regret greatly the loss, both as an officer and as a friend."

Chief J. Allan Wood: "I worked with Sergeant Lockhart for a number of years on various police matters and I always found him to be a very efficient officer. He was a hard worker and was very conscientious in the carrying out of his duties. He was a mighty fine fellow. The state police has lost one of its best men in the passing of Sergeant Lockhart."

District Attorney Cleon B. Murray: "In the death of Sgt. John H. Lockhart, the state of New York has lost one of its most devoted public servants. From my long experience with him as a police officer, I can say that he was one of the most conscientious, earnest and hard-working men with whom I have ever come in contact. He was an important cog in the administration of the criminal law in this county. His loss is irreparable. I have lost a sincere friend and to me his death is a severe loss, both personally and officially. My sincere sympathy is extended to his family, to whom he was so devoted."

Prof. Schwalbach Died on Tuesday

Prof. John B. Schwalbach, widely known teacher of music and organist of St. Peter's Church here, succumbed to a heart attack that seized him as he was preparing for bed at his home 235 Hasbrouck avenue, Tuesday night. Prof. Schwalbach conducted a piano studio at his home for a number of years and had a large enrollment of pupils. Through the years Mr. Schwalbach's expert tutoring was responsible for the success of many local pianists and he was regarded by musicians as an authority of the piano and organ. He was born in Hamburg, Germany, and came to America about 41 years ago, settling in Kingston. Prof. Schwalbach was educated in Germany and studied music from an early age under the direction of his father, a noted and accomplished musician. Prof. Schwalbach imparted to his students unselfish skill and technique that marked his own successful career as musician and instructor.

St. Peter's Church, where for the past 27 years he had been the church organist, has suffered an irreparable loss in his passing, because of his valuable knowledge of Gregorian music and his expert interpretation of the medieval system of music employed in the Catholic church. In addition to his organ playing he was director of the church choir, regarded as one of the finest best directed and organized in this vicinity. In this direction Prof. Schwalbach's talents were greatly appreciated, where he again by his study and knowledge of Latin was an indispensable factor in leading and giving distinction to a fine choir.

Prof. Schwalbach is survived by his wife, Mary A. Surder, a lifelong resident of Kingston.

For a long period of years Prof. Schwalbach was the director of the Roundout Social Mannerchor. He was also a member of the Musicians' Canon of Kingston and the Holy Name Society of St. Peter's Church.

His funeral will be held from the late home on Hasbrouck avenue, Saturday morning, and at St. Peter's Church, where a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment will be in St. Peter's cemetery, Rosendale.

The surviving relatives are two daughters, Jane, wife of Timothy J. Hoban, and Helen, wife of A. T. Young, both of this city, and four sons, William J. Farrell of Paris, N. Y., Frank L. Farrell of Vernon, N. Y., Hugh W. Farrell of South Amboy, N. J., and J. Joseph Farrell of this city and a sister, Mary, wife of David J. Roach of this city.

Maroon Defeats Middies, 33-19, Charlie Bock Scores 12 Points

Kingston High's third quarter rally enabled the Maroon to chalk up its 9th straight DUBO league victory with Middletown as the victim by a 33-19 count. The Kiasmen racked up their 13th successive win of the current campaign before a fair sized crowd at the Auditorium last night.

The red shirts put on a scoring spurge during the third frame with Rowland and Bock supplying the impetus to definitely decide the issue as the Middies suffered their second defeat by the localites. Charlie Bock scored high scoring honors with a 14-point performance, garnered on five fields and four fouls. Sloat Rowland and Tommy Maines scored seven and six respectively to supply the bulk of the scoring as the Kiasmen added another scalp to the victory belt.

After a raggedly played first half which saw the locals out in front by a 11-5 edge, the Maroon and White basketballers came down to earth and executed a timely scoring spurge to eliminate the Downsmen. Middletown held a 3-0 lead at the first quarter mark in a frame featured by some of the weirdest cavorting witnessed this season on the Broadway boards. Kingston's attack was absolutely nil with the localites missing shots galore and displaying subpar form all the way. Middletown unleashed its celebrated slow breaking, weaving offense and the deliberate maneuvering kept the pace down to waittime as both teams missed connections with the basket. Bock finally found the range and chucked in three ducies to pace the local comeback and Maines added a duo of neat follow-ups to give the Maroon a 11-5 halftime edge.

Bahl swept downcourt to slam in a fast breaking cut-in shot and signaled a return to form for the Kiasmen. Bock's pop shot and two fouls preceded a trio of neat ducies by Rowland. Sloat dropped in a set shot, a nifty coffin corner basket and sank a pushup to spark the attack. Fields by Maines and Bock gave the red shirted raiders a comfortable 27-9 margin as the third quarter closed. Great work by Bob Duffus, Middle age, enabled the Downsmen to creep up slightly as the Blueboy guard sank eight points during the closing session on a series of leaping pop shots.

Ellenville Next

Ellenville comes to town Friday night in the second DUBO engagement of the week as the locals will attempt to annex another victory over the cellar occupants. Ellenville threw quite a scare into the Maroon forces in an early season joust and will have another chance to spring an upset Friday night at 8:15.

The K. H. S. Jayvees downed the powerful Rough Riders in a thrilling preliminary skirmish with Harry Flowers banking in a pushup with one second to go to gain a 22-21 victory. Coach Whiston's charges racked up their eighth win in ten starts as they achieved their most notable conquest of the current season.

Terry Probably Will Be Back at First for Giants

Havana, March 3 (AP)—Probably the first man who really wanted to quit major league baseball still seems to be gazing beyond a lost horizon.

Bill Terry, barring a fast breaking baseball miracle, can't quit yet and take a rocking chair for side-line master minding.

His long search for a hard hitting, good fielding first baseman seems as far away as ever, and its a better than even money bet that the 1937 campaign will find Terry, had knee and all, back at his old stand.

Bill has two likely looking first basemen in his Havana camp, but neither of them—Sambo Leslie nor young Johnny McCarthy—seem to have what it takes to let their dog-tired boss hit as an active player.

Leslie can hit, but he can't satisfy Terry as a fielder.

McCarthy, 24-year-old ex-sand-lotter from Chicago, still seems a year or so away.

As painful as his crippled knee is, Terry still is far and away the best first baseman in his own camp.

A few rainbows for the Giant boss have appeared in the southern sky. One is Cydell Castleman; another is Lou Chiozza, the replacement obtained from Philadelphia.

Castleman, winner of 15 games in '35 and a flop with but four conquests in 1936, seems to have rid himself of his sciatica complaint.

"I'm all set for a bigger year than '35," says the 22-year-old, six-foot flinger from Donelson, Tenn., and so far he looks like he is.

Chiozza already has won the speed championship and is bound to be a big improvement over the Travis Jackson of '36. He is about a cinch to serve as lead-off man.

City Horsemen Met, Elected Officers

The Kingston Horsemen's Association held its annual meeting Tuesday evening in the Mabon & Walker drug store on Broadway, and elected Elmer Falen, president; A. H. Chambers, vice president; and Harry B. Walker, secretary-treasurer. Directors elected were David Schenck, John Roosa, Dr. B. W. Mabon and E. Frank Flanagan.

Matters of interest to horse owners were talked over and it was decided to appoint a committee later to arrange for a banquet of the association to be held in the spring. Interest in the association, which has been dormant for some time, is now reviving.

Philadelphia—Freddie Steele, 158, middleweight champion, stopped Paul Piroone, 162, Cleveland, 11, non-title.

How Heavyweight Situation Looks

New York, March 3 (AP)—Leaving the art of legerdemain to magicians, here's the way the heavyweight boxing situation looked today:

A healthy-looking, diplomatic Max Schmelling, who believes he can beat Joe Louis every day in the week, was in the big town poo-pooing suggestions that Jim Braddock will run out of his title date with the German on June 3 in Madison Square Garden's Bowl to meet Louis on June 22 in Chicago.

Titleholder Braddock, apparently oblivious and unconcerned over Schmelling's presence, announced he would pitch camp in Sandy Lake, Wis., for his bout with Louis—not Schmelling.

Schmelling's attitude that "Braddock is fighting me, I'll bet you, on June 3" was a relief to John Reed Kilpatrick, president of the Garden, whose most recent contractual troubles involving Max Baer have, as threatened, reached the courts.

If Braddock "isn't" fighting Schmelling on June 3, then Max doesn't know what he'll do. Some fellows, recalling how Schmelling won the title from Jack Sharkey, sitting down, suggested he would claim the crown if Jimmy takes a powder.

"No," said Max, "titles are won and lost in the ring."

Regarding the anti-Nazi League's boycott, Max said "there wouldn't be a boycott if they thought Braddock could beat me in two or three rounds." Furthermore, he can't sympathize with Braddock's yen for money.

"What about when Max Baer had to fight Braddock for the title?" asked Max. "There wasn't much money in it for Baer, but he went through with it."

Whether Max will visit the N. Y. State Athletic Commission this afternoon depends a lot on a conference with Kilpatrick, Max's trainer, Max Machon, Jacobs and the Garden's attorneys.

Meantime, the Garden isn't going to try to stop Max Baer and his manager, Anell Hoffman, from sailing on the S. S. Berengaria today for England, but the California cloutier probably will think twice before he fights in London on April 15.

The Garden contends Baer has broken a contract to meet Bob Fawcett on March 19 to accept an offer for two fights in London.

Fifty thousands dollar suits have been filed jointly against Baer and Hoffman charging violation of the Garden's contractual rights and against Alfred C. Critchley and Syd Hulis, London promoters, for "interfering with the same."

Gloves Finals at Garden, Monday

New York, March 3 (AP) All but one of the ten cities in the East and South which sent teams to compete with New York battles in the annual Daily News A. A. Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament will be represented in the final phase of battling at Madison Sq. Garden next Monday.

While New Yorkers outnumbering the invaders, took a big share of the laurels in the "semi-finals" of the lighter classes and the first night quarter finals the past two nights, only Union City, N. J., failed to come through all.

Here's how some of the boys will line up for the final round Monday.

Open Division

175—Charles Jackson, New York, and Gaetano Rossi, Bronx, center.

Heavyweight (over 160 lbs.)—Clarence Hayes, Memphis, Tenn., and Blaghampton, Reading, Pa., center.

Sub Junior Division

Heavyweight (145 lbs.)—Tommy Thompson, Philadelphia, Pa., center.

Lightweight (125 lbs.)—Tommy Thompson, Philadelphia, Pa., center.

Braddock Says He'll Kayo Louis In Sixth Round

Miami Beach, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Jimmy Braddock began a two weeks' vacation today by calmly stating he would knock out Joe Louis in their forthcoming Chicago fight in the sixth round.

In fact, he said it so unconcernedly and so assuredly that he left no doubt but that he feels that way.

"Sure," he answered when asked if he would retain his heavyweight championship next June. "In the sixth round."

"How does Mrs. Braddock feel about the bout?" he was asked.

"Just the way I do," Jim Replied.

"It won't be like the Bob Fawcett fight. I want to get in there and throw some punches myself. Besides, the fans are going to pay big money to see this fight, and I feel they're entitled to get something for their money."

Braddock said he had read the magazine articles in which Max Schmelling detailed how he beat the Brown Bomber but he's not mapping out any special campaign for his fight. He'll just fight as he goes along.

He thinks Louis is a sucker not only for a right, as Schmelling found, but for any punch.

"All he knows is to hit," Braddock observed. "He doesn't protect himself."

The champion will spend a couple of weeks swimming and soaking up the sunshine and then go up to the Wisconsin woods for six weeks of hard training.

What Experts Offer As Sports Forecast

New York, March 3 (AP)—If you care to parlay expert opinion on the outcome of this year's major offerings in professional sports competition, for or against, here's the forecast:

Joe Louis to whip Jim Braddock for the world heavyweight title in Chicago. Pompoon to capture the Kentucky Derby. Harry Cooper to wear the United States open golf crown, and the New York Yankees to play the St. Louis Cardinals in the next World Series.

This is the consensus of America's leading sports editors who kazed in to the crystal ball at the request of the Associated Press, crossed their fingers, and put themselves on record for the campaign of 1937 on all major fronts. For their information and yours, it's Broadway Jack Doyle's opinion this five-star parlay is a 500 to 1 proposition.

A year ago, the inside experts wouldn't have given Braddock one chance in a hundred to keep his title crown safe from the assault of the Brown Bomber. So rapidly have subsequent events altered opinion that our poll shows a tally of only 27 to 20 in favor of Louis. "This tallies pretty well with the present view of betting men that the Bomber will be no better than a 2 to 3 shot when he challenges the champion in Comiskey Park, June 22."

LAST NIGHT'S HOCKEY RESULTS

(By The Associated Press)

National League
Detroit 7, Montreal Maroons 4.
Chicago 4, Boston 2.

American Association
Wichita 5, Minneapolis 0.
Tulsa 3, St. Paul 0.

Jersey City, N. J.—Joe Boscerino, 138, Carbondale, Pa., and Paris Apice, 135, Providence, R. I., drew (8); Neil Reno, 176, Jersey City, stopped Joe Littleton, 171, New York (1).

Seattle—Billy Buxton, 124, Victoria, stopped Able Israel, 126, Seattle, (3).

Anxious to win the three remaining home games on the Colonials' American Basketball League schedule, Frank Morgenweck will drive his locals hard tonight when they play the Brooklyn Visitations at the Municipal Auditorium.

"We'll have to do some tall playing if we want to whip those Visitations," said Morge today. "They are the apple of the American League right now, with their recent victories over the Jersey Reds and the Philadelphia Hebrews."

"I'd like to take John Donlon's boys over tonight just as a gesture to bring out that Kingston is ready for the Celtics on March 10 and the Jersey Reds on March 17."

The tilt with the Gas House Gang marks the end of league ball for the season, but probably there will be several exhibition games after that.

Nat Frankel, flashy young forward, and the seasoned George Slott should give the Colonials lots of trouble tonight. Frankel in the Visitations win over Philly turned in 26 points to tie Phil Rabin's league record. Slott generally gets at least 10 points in every game.

Morge did not announce his starting lineup, and indications are that Jimmy Brown, young local favorite, may go in with this Saunders as a forward instead of Corky Stanton. Brownie has been turning in nice exhibitions lately.

Tonight's game not only will give the Colonials a chance to fortify themselves for the Colts and Reds, but afford Phil Rabin a chance to boost his scoring total of 165 points, the highest in the league. Carlo Hustla, Kingston's grand old man of the court, is in fourth place with 125 points.

The standing of the clubs in the American League, according to the latest official reports, is as follows:

Standing of Clubs	W	L	Pct.
Philadelphia Hebrews	10	4	.711
Jersey Reds	9	5	.643
Brooklyn Visitations	8	6	.571
Original Celtics	8	7	.533
Kingston Colonials	6	9	.400
New York Jewels	1	13	.227

Parent-Teacher Associations

Temple Emanuel

A meeting of the Temple Emanuel P. T. A. was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Newman on Monday evening, March 1. It was decided that the P. T. A. would furnish the children with the usual Passover celebration. The gathering was addressed by Dr. E. V. Beebe of the New Paltz Normal School. The theme of his interesting discussion was "Development of Honesty Among Children". Dr. Beebe discussed the law of effect, pointing out that a child will be honest if he derives more satisfaction from honesty than from dishonesty. It is the parents' duty to see to it that these situations come to the child whether in terms of approbation or other forms of gratification. The speaker pointed out that commendation is most effective when it is indirectly given. The parent must be alert as to the child's conduct but not suspicious. He insisted that the stigma of thief should not be applied to the child as a means of punishment if he takes something, since he may feel that he must live up to the challenge of his name. No child is instinctively honest or dishonest. But since we are instinctively selfish in our formative period, habits of honesty must be developed to satisfy certain native desires for approval. Therefore, we must praise the child for honesty and express our disapproval of the opposite. Dr. Beebe further indicated that it is not wise to place the child into too great a temptation until we know he is strong enough to withstand the desire to fitch. "Let us not make a mountain out of a mole hill," said the speaker. "Let us not be revolted by the fact that our child may take some trifle. But let us face the fact and ask ourselves 'What made the child steal?'"

Did he take something that was not his? On the other hand, let us countenance repeated petty stealing on the theory that the child will grow it. The one principle which we must keep in mind is that the child will do that which gives the greatest satisfaction. The meeting of the Temple Emanuel P. T. A. will be held at the home of Mrs. Benjamin Levy, 98 Emerson street, on April 5.
